

Everything we have and everything we use comes from our natural resources.
The Earth is the source for all of it.

The air we breathe, the food we eat, the clothes we wear, and the houses we live in all come from our natural resources. We must use them wisely and treat them with respect.