

How Do We Use Our Land? Part II

Look at the property again. Draw a picture of yourself in the middle of it.

What other questions would you ask?

---

---

---

How do you think you would like living here?

---

---

---

What do you like most about this place?

---

---

---

What kinds of things would you do when you are on your property? What kind of hobby could you have? _____

---

---

---

Name your property. Write a short story about how you spend a day there.

Imagine that this property has been owned by your family for many, many years. Although your family has always lived in the nearby town, most of the time in the past you have visited the property during vacation.

What will you do with the property in the next year? _____

---

---

---

What could you do with the property in the next five years? How might you use it?

---

---

---

You have made a land use decision. You did this based on what you know about the land and how you feel about it.

As a land manager this was the first of many decisions you will make about your land.
